THE HARBOR.

Our comparatively venerable and superlatively wise contemporaries are discussing the harbor in a manner that is, at least in part, rather idle. What is the use of complaining about the filling in that has been done on the harbor front at this time of day? If water is needed more than land, there are vast expanses of coral reef on almost every other side of the harbor that can be dug out as easily as the portion could have been which has been reclaimed for building ground. Supposing the Government waited until it could afford the enormous expense of dredging out what it instead built up into dry land, where could the vast commerce anticipated find space for wharf and warehouse accommodation inside of the deep water line? The land is all occupied right down to the reef, with doubtless a high valuation put upon it by the many proprietors. Commerce cannot establish easy communications between sea and shore over the roofs of houses and flower and vegetable gardens. It would have to buy out all the real estate intervening between the sea and available business sites.

In view of these things, as well as of the fact that the filling in referred to in the harbor, it would be hardly wise, if matters were put back to the conditions existing before that operation was begun, to decide upon digging out instead of dumping in. By the time the harbor is dug out for deep sea commerce over to the prison embankment on the Ewa side and to the quarantine station opposite the town, the Government will need to take a good long rest for the replenishment of its resources. Indeed, before so much scooping out of coral reef is required by the fabulously large additional commerce anticipated from the Canadian and Panama steam and sailing traffic, it would be necessary to double the width of the harbor entrance and increase its depth by one-half.

Moreover, after all is done that may be done for enlarging the capacity of the harbor of Honolulu, before accepting the stupendous alternative of digging out the Esplanade and buying all the real estate from the water front to Queen street, it would perhaps be worth while having a commission of engineers to report upon the cost of deepening the entrance to Pearl Harbor. Open out that beautiful and spacious sheet of deep water to commerce, and the fleets of all nations may be invited to come and find accommodation at the hands of "little Hawaii." That would be taking commerce away from Honolulu. So it would, but it would be all in the country, and Honolulu will be rather crowded for comfort when it has secured all the business that its harbor can accommodate after all the presently feasible improvements are accomplished without counting the shovelling out into the ocean of the splendid tract of building ground added to the city front under the administration of Major Gulick.

More Grayhounds

It is reported in New York on very good authority that the Union Line fleet will be augmented by two more fast ocean racers, which are calculated to eclipse any steamer that crosses the Atlantic Ocean at present, as far as speed and magnificence are concerned. They will be sister ships of 7,000 tons each, having a seating capacity in their saloons for 250 persons at one time. They will be supplied with every modern appliance.

General Items.

Admiral Porter has lately been suffering from intestinal pains of an agonizing character. His physicians were encouraged at their efforts, and expected to have him up in a few weeks.

John H. Little, a local canvasser for portraits at Auburn, N. Y., has fallen heir to a large estate in England. The estate is only ten miles distant from Mrs Mackay's present residence and is valued at $5,000,000.

The Duke of Saville, who is under imprisonment in Spain, has issued a manifesto favorable to a republic as the only government that can furnish a guarantee for the security and integrity of the country.

Some misgivings have been felt as to what kind of a banquet that in honor of the unveiling of the Bartholdi statue is going to be, the condition of the appropriation made by Congress for the ceremonies being that none of the money is to be spent for liquor or cigars. The committee is sending out some ten thousand invitations. Among the guests will be a number of distinguished foreigners, to whom a banquet conducted on the cold-water basis would prove hardly an agreeable novelty.

Two years ago Queen Victoria sold the well-known Hereford bull Conqueror to Professor Brown of Ontario for £600. The beast is so much missed in the Royal herd at Windsor that an attempt is being made to purchase him, as it has not been possible to obtain a sire of equal merit in England. Conqueror is a son of the famous Lord Wilton, and comes from a grandly bred dam.

A dispatch from Ottawa says that valuable gold deposits have been discovered near the boundary line between Southeastern Alaska and British Columbia, and as no accurate survey has ever been made, a joint commission to locate the exact boundary has been urged.

Knights of Labor Denounced by the Canada Catholics.

A special Montreal dispatch of October 23 says: A sensation was caused among the members of the Knights of Labor when Father Dowd, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, the most prominent Irish Catholic congregation here, continued to-day his reading of the circular of the Council of Bishops of the Province of Quebec regarding the Knights of Labor and other secret societies which, he said, the Bishops had denounced and which could not be recognized by the Church. Cardinal Taschereau, who was a fair man, and who, if he were called upon to decide between his brother and a stranger, would decide in favor of the stranger if he was in the right, had submitted the whole matter to Rome, with the result that the Pope had denounced the organization. In such case they had nothing to do but to submit to Cardinal Taschereau. It might be said that the association was not condemned in America. With that they had nothing to do whatever. Cardinal Taschereau presided and ruled over his own diocese, and was responsible for it, and if the order were not condemned in America he had no doubt the Bishops had good reasoning for it. He also said that the executive of the organization was in a foreign country, and their lordships wished to prevent serious complications which might occur from that fact.

Revolt Against the League.

Something in the nature of an open revolt against the Irish National League and Parnell, took place lately at a meeting of the Twentieth ward branch in New York. It arose in the course of a discussion whether the branch should respond to circular issued by Parnell to President Fitzgerald of the Irish National League. The Chairman said: "Not one penny more of my money shall go to the anti-eviction fund or to any form of parliamentary agitation. We want an accounting for the million and more dollars that have gone into the treasury of the League from this country before sinking any more money. It is not long since I was in Ireland, and I can safely say that in many of the western and southwestern counties the unfortunate people who took the advice of the league and allowed themselves to be evicted got no support at all from the League, while some of the gang and members of parliament from Ireland could drive about Dublin in state, living upon the money that we sent over." Several other speakers spoke in a similar strain.
